Brian Lee named new President and CEO of Landings Credit Union

Landings Credit Union is proud to announce Brian Lee as the new President and CEO. Lee previously held the position of Chief Financial Officer at Landings Credit Union since 2014. Prior to working at Landings Credit Union Lee spent four years working as a credit union federal regulator. Lee is a proud Sun Devil and graduate of Arizona State University.

When asked about the future of Landings Credit Union Lee says “I’m extremely optimistic about what we will accomplish at Landings Credit Union in the near future. We are working on innovative new ways to make it easier to do your banking, while maintaining our signature, personalized level of service. We look forward to expanding upon our presence in the community and finding new ways to give back”.

Lee is a graduate of both Tempe and ASU Leadership programs. Within the Credit Union arena, he is a Credit Union Development Educator (CUDE) graduate and has been a visible force within the young professionals groups and initiatives, including being named to the Mountain West Credit Union Association’s “20 Under 40”.

When not immersed in the credit union world Lee can be found spending time with his wife and four children doing anything from traveling together, competing in sports and caring for their tortoise, two guinea pigs and some fish.
